SUBJECT:

MALCOLM X SPEAKS

Young Socialists forum, 12.15 p.m., U.S.C.B. (Town), July 30th, features a taped speech on "The Black Revolution", given in New York 10 years ago.

New facts that to come out in the light of the Watergate scandal have revealed strong implications that the FBI was involved in the assassinations of two of the most prominent leaders of the Black movement in the United States, Malcolm X and Martin Luther King.

The new evidence consists of seven previously top secret memorandums issued by J. Edgar Hoover between 1961 and 1970. Xerox copies of these memorandums, (which outline a government plot to "expose, disrupt, misdirect or otherwise neutralise" the Black liberation movement), were released by the Government in March in response to a court order. Most references to individuals and organisations are blacked out or covered over, however by counting number of letters and spaces made by the typewriter it's not hard to figure out who is being referred to.

One of the FBI's main aims was to prevent the emergence of a cohesive and radical leadership such as that which Malcolm X may have been able to give had he not been slain so soon. The circumstances of X's death (and also King's) have never been fully or satisfactorily clarified. This fact and the publication of the FBI memos led to the allegation of Rev. Jesse Jackson (President of Operation PUSH, a leading Black organisation in Chicago, and also a former top aide of King's) that "the FBI figured prominently in the assassination of Malcolm X, Martin Luther King and Fred Hampton".

Jackson himself was an eyewitness to King's murder and had described to reporters how the police, running towards him after the shooting, had asked him where the shot came from. Jackson pointed out that it came from right behind where they were running from . . . they were coming from where the shot had been fired!

Malcolm X was murdered at the Audubon building in Harlem, 1965. One of the three men convicted of the murder admitted in court to being part of a group of hired assassins but refused to disclose who had hired them. Nine years later the loose ends are still left dangling.

Malcolm X represented the dynamic and revolutionary wing of the Black movement. Unlike the other wing - epitomised by King - he evolved to a position where he did not think that Blacks would achieve equal rights let alone liberation by merely reforming the American system. This may be a position held fairly widely amongst radical Blacks today, but ten years ago it was a pretty daring thing for a Black to say. Malcolm X was a militant Black nationalist, whose ideas were not only that he was cut down before he had time to formulate all his ideas into a cohesive whole.

Malcolm X emerged from the Black Muslims of Elijah Muhammed but developed significant differences with Muhammed and left one year before his death. That last year he expressed his own independent and evolving views rather than those of the Muslims. He set about developing them to a final outcome, drawing together the already existing ideas he had and additions and modifications from new experience and insight.

The idea of the white person as the enemy was the beginning of political wisdom for Blacks who had illusions that the white racist power structure would hand them freedom on a golden platter. The idea that Blacks had to fight for their freedom was an indispensable first step. As Malcolm X pointed out time after time Blacks needed to depend on their own organised strength, their own independent movement, aims and programme. After this stage had been reached, where they were an organised force, then they might look for other sectors of society including working class whites, to ally with, making the right kind of alliances. And by the right kind of alliance he did not mean working in the Democratic Party, as many Black liberals and radicals have been doing. He regarded the Democratic Party with all the contempt it deserves, and saw that it was a backward step for Black militants to support that party.

He began to look into the root causes of racism and to see the possibility of its elimination. He began to study the nature of capitalism as a system - always from the point of view of how the interests of Black people could be protected and promoted. From this study - especially from the thinking initiated through his discussions with African revolutionaries - he came to the conclusion that the capitalist system was, and still is, the cause of racism, and that its impossible to have capitalism without having racism. Therefore socialism should seriously be considered as an objective by oppressed nationalities. While he was prevented from any further development due to his death, it can at the very least be said that Malcolm X was pro socialist and anti capitalist, which was quite a thing for the times. It was his utter dedication, his honesty and his commitment to relentlessly fight racism which propelled him in the direction of socialism.

Malcolm X became to the Black Liberation movement what Eldridge Cleaver called "the standard" and "the model".

Because of their support of his ideas the Socialist Workers Party became the chief propagators of the Black Liberation movement, holding the right of self-determination.

Progressive Labour. The only left wing groups to support him were the Socialist Workers Party and Young Socialist Alliance (the Trotskyist party and youth group). Malcolm X once drew an interesting line between the radical groups. When he said, "If you love revolution, you'll love Black nationalism". The Communist Party and the Maoists loved neither!

It is ironic that at the time of his being murdered virtually nothing of what he said was in print, (apart from some articles in the SWP paper, "The Militant", and twisted reports in the establishment media), but since then thousands of people have read and heard his views, many of whom were probably unaware of him when he was alive.

His work was the major influence on a whole wave of Black militants, including the founders of the Black Panther Party, although they later went off in a very different direction to the path which Malcolm X pointed to. Thus it was a great loss to the entire Black population

The Canterbury University Young Socialists have managed to get a tape of a speech that Malcolm X gave on April 8th, 1964 at the Militant Labour Forum organised by the SWP. The tape is called "The Black Revolution" and shows his ability as an orator, as well as Black leader, second to none. Anyone who has read any of his speeches, such as in the collection "Malcolm X Speaks", can feel the power of the man's words.

NOW YOU HAVE THE OPPORTUNITY TO HEAR THIS SPEECH BY THE MOST DYNAMIC POLITICAL LEADER, ORATOR AND THINKER THAT THE BLACK LIBERATION MOVEMENT HAS YET PRODUCED.

THE YOUNG SOCIALISTS WILL BE PLAYING IT AT A FORUM IN THE UPSTAIRS COMMON ROOM, TOWNSITE, ON JULY 30 TH, AT 12.15.

Housing Rehabilitation

The Failure

on Homan Av.

By Jerry Lipson

Dodging water dripping from choking sewer pipes, the rats skittered across the crumbling floor in the inky basement at 1321 S. Homan Av.

Upstairs, stained, raggedy curtains fluttered behind chopped-out windows of rooms littered with broken furniture, fallen plaster and shattered bottles.

Outside, above the sagging metal canopy over the entrance to the three-story gray-stone is fixed a sign that reads:

"Chicago Dwellings Association. This building is being remodeled to improve your neighborhood."

It is signed, "Richard J. Daley, Mayor."

SIXTEEN months ago, with great fanfare, the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. announced he was taking over the structure, which lacked heat, light and adequate plumbing. It housed 5 adults and 28 children.

The owner of the six-unit building, John B. Bender, 81, was in Circuit Court, facing 23 charges of blusing code violations.

Dr. King on that snowy Feb. 23, 1966, said he planned to use the tenants' rents to repair the building under an admittedly nonlegal "trusteeship."

The structure would become, Dr. King said, a symbol of rehabilitation possibilities that would bring "new life and new hope to the slums" of Chicago.

TODAY, the slowly crumbling place stands, instead, a symbol of failure, ensnared in legal and financial red tape.

Its probable future, despite official protests to the contrary, is not a new life of bright apartments, but death under the cold swish of the wreckers' ball.

This is the story of failure on Homan Av.

HOPES were high that first day, when 30 ministers joined Dr. King in shoveling a year's accumulation of trash and ashes from the basement.

With $2,000 in donations, workmen started patching and plastering gaping holes in walls and ceilings, repairing the broken furnace, rewiring electrical circuits.

It would be, said Lewis Kreinberg of the West Side Federation, Dr. King's partner in the project, "a visible victory for the West Side, something the people could see, feel and touch."

AND it would answer the experts who said the only solution for ravaged Lawndale was to tear everything out and start all over.

The West Side Federation cried "Foul!" and Worskak promised to seek money for rehabilitation.

But, after two months of trying, he told Judge Butler he could obtain no financing, and on May 26, 1966, Worskak was released as receiver.

The Chicago Dwellings Assn. took over, and here the picture becomes a confusion of proposals, counterproposals, charges and denials.

BENDER died in April, 1966, and the property was taken over by the First Mutual Savings Assn., 211 S. La Salle, which held an $8,500 mortgage.

The CDA proposed a $43,750 rehabilitation program, but attorneys for First Mutual argued this was too costly and said they could do an adequate job for $10,000 or less.

In August, the CDA announced a joint venture with the U.S. Gypsum Co. to make 1321 S. Roman a test of rehabilitation methods.

The agency would remodel the three front apartments, and U.S. Gypsum would do the rear three. Records would be kept to see which method worked best.

BUT U.S. Gypsum quietly pulled out later, and months of haggling followed between CDA chairman, says, the what to do with the building.

The agency cut its proposal to $31,250, 1st Mutual offered to sell the property for $6,500 and CDA first accepted, then rejected this.

Each new move required another date in court with Judge Butler.

Last month, it was reported that the CDA had decided to recommend demolishing the old structure and replacing it with a new smaller building.

However, Charles Swibel, Swibel, CDA chairman, says agency still "hopes" to rehabilitate it, "if possible."

Those words are less forceful than when the CDA first entered the picture 14 months ago.

THE ISSUE over who will do what with the property is still not settled, and while the verbal storm swirls on, nothing has been done to make the 55-year-old walk-up more livable.

Swibel said his agency has spent nearly $4,000 on utilities and "protective services" and has relocated all but one of the four families who lived there.

A woman and her six children occupy a rear, three-room flat. The electricity works, but the plumbing is erratic and the kitchen sink is filled with packed-up water.

"No one ever comes around here, except the kids looking to play," said Leslie Jolly, 18, a neighbor. "I'm always chasing the kids away."

"They could fix it up, I've seen 'em fix up worse," he said. "But, they'll tear it down."

THE AGENCY is due to rule Thursday on yet another proposal for the building that would replace it with a $24,000 three-flat if rehabilitation finally proves unworkable.

But, any plan for new construction will mean a delay of at least nine months before any new structure is ready for occupancy.

Meanwhile, Lawndale will have six fewer apartments to house its already woefully overcrowded population.

"The real tragedy," said Kreisberg, "is that this building really could have been rehabilitated."

Workmen had begun repairing this bathroom before legal entanglements forced everything to a halt.

Regarding the allegation that the Senior Resident Agent in the Albany, Georgia, Resident Agency was a "bland racist", it is noted that former Special Agent [REDACTED] was Senior Resident Agent in Albany until he retired recently. There is no known basis for the statement made by MURTAGH regarding [REDACTED].

Regarding the statement made by MURTAGH about his supervisor asking him to obtain stationery from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC) and handwriting samples of "ANDY YOUNG", it is noted that a review of pertinent Atlanta files discloses no information to support this allegation, and pertinent personnel have no recollection of any request of MURTAGH as described by him.

Enclosed are a transcript of an interview of former Special Agent Arthur Murtagh of your office and a news article appearing in the "Malone Evening Telegram," Malone, New York, 7/12/73.

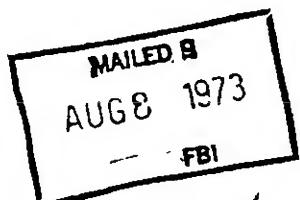

The interview of Murtagh was conducted by radio station WICY, Malone, New York, on a program referred to as the "Summer of '73." In this interview, Murtagh makes allegations (1) that the Agent in charge of the Albany Office, Albany, Georgia, apparently referring to the Senior Resident Agent of the Albany, Georgia, Resident Agency of the Atlanta Division, was a "bland racist" and that he would slant civil rights complaints made to him in such a manner that the Justice Department would make a determination that there was nothing to them. (2) That Murtagh was orally requested by a supervisor of the Atlanta Office to obtain handwriting samples on "Andy Young" and some stationery from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC). Murtagh states he declined this request. The Andy Young referred to by Murtagh apparently is Andrew Young, who was elected to the 93rd session of the U. S. Congress from the 5th District of Georgia.

In the 7/12/73 issue of the "Malone Evening Telegram," Murtagh alleges that because of "Hoover's hatred of civil rights movement in the South" the FBI did not conduct investigation concerning the violence of the Ku Klux Klan directed against Negroes until Martin Luther King demanded such action.

The purpose of this memorandum is to advise of allegations made by former Special Agent Arthur Murtagh during an interview on 7/12/73 of radio station WICY, Malone, New York, on a program referred to as "Summer of '73," and of allegations made by Murtagh appearing in the Malone Evening Telegram, Malone, New York, dated Thursday, 7/12/73, and to recommend attached airtel be sent to the Atlanta Division to obtain their comments concerning these allegations.

Arthur Leo Murtagh, age 51, a retired Special Agent practicing law in Constable, New York, is very critical of the Bureau and is writing a book about his Bureau experiences. In an interview by 'The New York Times' he made allegations that the electronic surveillance of the late Martin Luther King, Jr., was part of a "get King" movement in the FBI triggered by a hatred of King by the late Director Hoover. Murtagh was assigned to the security squad in Atlanta which handled the King case but he was working on other assignments during the time of the electronic surveillance of King. He was known in Atlanta to be very critical of the disciplinary policies of Mr. Hoover and of the Bureau's weight program.

My memoranda dated 5/23/73 and 5/25/73 reported previous allegations made by Murtagh concerning the activities of the Bureau during the investigation of Martin Luther King, Jr., and the results of review of Bureau files concerning these allegations. The allegations made by Murtagh at that time were basically related to his stating that the Bureau was leaking information to people outside the Bureau in an effort to embarrass King.

The radio interview on 7/12/73 was in general a reiteration of the allegations made previously by Murtagh and the subject of the previous memoranda. The only additional allegations made by Murtagh were (1) that the Agent in charge of the Albany Office in Albany, Georgia, apparently referring to the Senior Resident Agent of the Albany, Georgia, Resident Agency of the Atlanta Division, Georgia, was a "bland racist," and that he would slant civil rights complaints made to him in such a manner that the Justice Department would make a determination that there was nothing to them. (2) That Murtagh was orally requested by a supervisor of the Atlanta Office to obtain handwriting samples on "Andy Young" and some stationery from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference (SCLC). Murtagh states he declined this request. The Andy Young referred to by Murtagh is Andrew Young, who was elected to the 93rd U. S. Congress from the 5th District of Georgia. Young apparently at the time of this alleged request was working with King in the SCLC and this was prior to his election to Congress.

In an interview reported in the "Malone Evening Telegram," Malone, New York, 7/12/73 issue, Murtagh alleges because of Hoover's hatred of the civil rights movement in the South, the FBI did not investigate crimes committed by the Ku Klux Klan against Negroes until Martin Luther King demanded such investigations.

It is recommended that attached airtel be sent to the Atlanta Division in line with the above.

Welcome to the Summer of 73. Mr. Arthur Murtagh, is an attorney now residing in Constable, and welcome to Summer of 73 Mr. Murtagh, and I learned that you were writing a book, ah, I learned it through "Parade" here a few weeks ago, on Martin Luther King. Is that right sir?

Well it's a little inaccurate, the "Parade" article was not a....was not a very accurate account of what ah.... I had had to say previously in connection with Doctor King. What happened, the book really is...the book really is not so much about King as it is about the 20 years that I spent in the FBI, and what I saw in the FBI which indicated to me that the Federal Bureau of Investigation had many of the same problems that were present in the staff of the White House in connection with the Watergate situation. The FBI over a period of 50 years under Mr. Hoover gradually in the last 12 or 15 years that I was in gradually began to degenerate and this came about I felt because Mr. Hoover had excessive power. He had no checks and balances operating on him. He went to Congress each year with a budget message but it was more of a circus than an investigation, (voice agrees with him), and during these last years in the FBI I learned first hand of political sabotage efforts by the Bureau by various individuals in the upper echelons to collect information on political candidates and if there was something unfavorable, they would get to the political candidate, let them know they had it and then the problem results that they had this fellow in their pocket and that he couldn't in any way injure the Bureau. What happened as far as what came out in "Parade" I....when the Watergate incident broke I felt that it was my responsibility to be let known what I had seen and what I knew about conditions in the Bureau, and I called ah.... I went to the New York Times, I wrote the book while I was in the Bureau and some of my friends that had read it at that time that I got out of the Bureau, which was considerably before Watergate, they told me what I already know, they said Art don't try to publish that book because nobody will believe the conditions that exist in the Bureau. You know they're true and if it was an Agent speaking he'd say I know they're true (voice agrees with him) but it's too far out, nobody's going to believe that Mr. Hoover did and had done many of the things which he did in order to build his power. I was very despondent and discouraged about the way the country was going. I could see this Watergate mentality developing in the Bureau, the attitude that whatever I want is right and if I have to break the law in order to make it come to pass that's right too. So I called or I went to the New York Times and (name) of the New York Times called me and said he was sending a man to see me from....Wally Turner from the West Coast. Turner came to see me and we spent two days and most of two nights together and he was interviewing me and he left and went out and checked out the story and took about 10 days to do it, he called me back from New York, from Washington, from Atlanta, and told me what he had found and he actually found things about the King, Doctor King situation which corroborated what I said. He found things that as odd as it seems he identified one fellow who was taking information off of the wire tap in Atlanta and titling it in such a way that I knew who he was and I had known him for 12 years and ab.....while he was in Atlanta, and never really recognized that he was one of the ones that was doing the (unintelligible) on another agent. What happened here was that Doctor King was leading civil rights movements in Albany in the early 60s, and in Albany, Georgia. (Voice agrees) And he was trying to get the park and swimming pool and libraries and library integrated and he was getting tremendous opposition from the Klan and there was a lot of mistreatment of Negroes by local police so Robert Kennedy sent very large numbers of attorneys from the Justice Department down to talk with the Blacks and talk with the Whites and try to find out what was going on and whether violations of the civil rights laws were taking place and we had a large contingent of Agents all the time because of potential violence and during that time we were..... the Bureau was the recipients of complaints on civil rights and the Albany Office in Albany, Georgia, at that time was in charge of a man who could be described in no other way as a bland racist. He would take the complaints and he would see to it that he handled the great majority of them on Blacks and he would re-write them in such a way that when they got to the Justice Department there was nothing to them. He would leave out parts or he'd tone them down and he would make it look as though the police were not doing what all of us knew they were doing. And ah, so Doctor King, hearing of this made a statement to the effect that the FBI was not carrying out its responsibilities, and that the Agents in Albany, Georgia, were not carrying out their responsibilities and this enraged Hoover. Shortly thereafter, there was a massive investigation of Doctor King. At that time, it was possible to put a wire tap, I guess it still is, even under the present situation, to put a wire tap on an individual if you had some indication, or if the Attorney General could be given some indication, that there was.....that he was connected in some way with a national security question, and the New York Office came up with some information, rather flimsy, that King had some association with some people who had been at one time connected with some questionably activity, in the ah...., in the ah, Communist field. These people by no means dominated Doctor King's movement, they were ah....in the past they were, they assisted him, they assisted in some way, but, there were only two or three out of the whole hundreds and hundreds and hundreds of people that King had associated with him and on the basis of this information, it was written up in such a way that Bobby

Kennedy was put in a position of either saying well okay go and check it out with a wire tap or, I don't think there's anything to it, then of course if Kennedy had no opportunity to really check it out himself he had to depend on what Hoover told him. And Hoover blew the thing out of proportion, got the permission for the wire tap, put the wire tap on and left it on for something in excess of three years. This involved great numbers of Agents time throughout the country. (Asked question: Now you were one of these Agents?) No, I was on the squad that handled the wire tap but I refused to work on it. I knew that it was illegal, or at least that it was being, that the information was being used illegally in the very early stages. This sort of information came to one working in that area, there were only 15 of us in the Atlanta Office that were in the area working intelligence work that knew what was going on in this area and I couldn't help but know everything that went on. I knew that it was planned, that ah....that this was a plan to try and embarrass Doctor King in some way and a bewale his civil rights movement. Later on I found that positive information that certain things that were said on the wire tap by King and some of his associates which would have been embarrassing to King, to Doctor King, but were highly private they were something that the FBI had no interest, no reason whatsoever to be looking into, ah....some of this information began to leak and I began to hear it in public places, people would come and say I understand the FBI is got this information on King, the only person who could have gotten it is if some Agent invented it. So later on I learned from a doctor that I knew, who was the doctor to the local Archbishop, Archbishop ~~Hallanon~~ (ph), this doctor came to me and he said Art, why would two men from the FBI come to the.... come to Bishop Hallanon just before King was to receive his award for the Pulitzer Prize, I mean for the, it wasn't the Pulitzer Prize it was the Nobel Peace Prize. And Archbishop Hallanon was going to give the main speech at a dinner being held for King and there were dignitaries coming from all over the country and the doctor said, Art why would an FBI Agent from Atlanta and an FBI Agent from Washington, D.C., come to see Archbishop Halanon and try to get him not to give this speech....ah in favor of King? And I said, Oh. Well just before this had happened the Assistant Director had come to Atlanta for a conference or at the time the bishop had been visited, and there had been talk on the squad that Hoover was finally going to "blow King out of the water", that he had enough information to embarrass him and that they were going to get him. And so I put the two situations together and the doctor also said that the Archbishop asked him, he said not only did he come to the Archbishop, this is the Archbishop talking, he said he came to, he said I was talking to ah....the rabbi... the Head Rabbi in Atlanta, and he had been to see him. And he had also been to see Ralph McGill a very prominent newspaper reporter. Well I knew he had been to see ~~Ralph~~ McGill who was the editor of the Atlanta Constitution, because one of the Agents who always went (untelligible) Doctor King anymore he says the Assistant Director was (unintelligible) closeted with him this afternoon for about an hour and a half and he read the riot act to him, or something to that effect. So it was a planned, organized effort to take information that was illegally obtained, and, to use it to destroy someone who had offended Mr. Hoover. I have several other illustrations, I was personally asked by a man in Congress now, Andy Young, who was a worker for King and finally ran for Congress. And when he announced for Congress, one of my supervisors who could be described only as a "Colonel Klink" type, if you know of Colonel Klink, called me in one night and he said, and this was all orally, everything of this nature was always handled orally, no memorandum. He said A t could you get some handwriting samples, I had a lot of informants in all the Black areas, he says could you get me handwriting samples on Andy Young and some stationary from the Southern Christian Leadership Conference and I looked at him and I said, now look, you can tell that fellow at the Bureau if he wants to use....wants to blow King, or wants to blow Andy Young out of the water, that I know they do this and I know they have done it to other politicians, but they're not going to do it to Andy Young with my help. And you can just tell him as far as I'm concerned that if he wants to make an issue of it to put it in writing and we'll go through the courts, or take some other area. And that was the last I ever heard of that. This sort of activity could take place in the FBI, because one man was at the top and there was no checks and balances; there was no way to in any way question what he did. If an Agent had made any attempts, occasionally some Agent would make an attempt, to question or to get something straightened out and he'd find himself in Alaska, transferred, or he'd find himself fired, and then he'd find that where.....when he went to get jobs the Bureau was following him around and peddling information about him to see that he never got the job that he wanted. (Asked question: Now you're retired?) I'm retired. (Asked question: Now your book, when do you expect it to be....?) Well I really don't know, I'm not pushing very hard at it when.... when I gave the story to the Times I had a flood of interest in the book from four book companies wrote me and called me, and some re-write people called....wanted to know if they could help me with it. I've got the manuscript, I guess probably about two-thirds prepared, maybe half prepared, and I think I'll finish it within the next three or four months and send it to someone.

Mr. Murtagh I wish we had more time, (laughs), very interesting, I'm sure we could go on and talk all day. Perhaps some time before the summer's over if you would like to come back and be a guest on the Summer of 73?

Why any time.

Thank you very much for being our guest.

I enjoyed it.

Thank you.

J. Edgar Hoover Assailed By Retired FBI Agent

How the FBI under the late J. Edgar Hoover was used to "sandbag" Martin Luther King, allow "leaks" to the press against persons in high office deemed unfriendly, and how the federal agency was operated as an "absolute dictatorship" was described by Attorney Arthur Murnagh Tuesday to local Kiwanians at their weekly luncheon meeting at the County Club.

Murnagh, who spent 20 years with the FBI and who is writing an expose of the agency, resides in Constable where he practices law and from where he commutes to Plattsburgh to lecture at the Clinton County Community College. He was the guest of E. John Silver.

Quoting Lincoln's famous words of "equality under the law", the retired FBI agent described how this became anything but the truth under Hoover who was able to gather enough power to invoke hatred and fear in his agency and in the federal government. It's an old maxim, Murnagh said, that if you give a person enough power long enough, he will abuse it.

It was about 1960, the speaker stated, that the FBI began its downhill descent as Hoover was getting older and the agency had no checks and balances on its operation. The former FBI director, he asserted, garnered his dictatorial position by careful selection of personnel who were able to be molded. There was a rule in the agency of absolut secrecy, he said, and the internal inspection policy was actually a joke. Hoover, he continued, was surrounded by weak people and in this atmosphere the "great lie" started and the nation's press was manipulated.

Millions of dollars, Murnagh asserted, were spent to enhance the public image of J. Edgar and the nation sincerely believed him to be a great American of impeccable character. There were untruths about the amount of work and overtime in the agency and more falsehoods about the numbers of crimes investigated by the FBI, the speaker reported. Hoover, he said, believed only in the wisdom of J. Edgar.

The speaker told of how the late Martin Luther King was undermined by the FBI; of how deep was Hoover's hatred of the civil rights movement in the South; and of how murders committed by the Klu Klux Klan were either not investigated or covered up. The bones and bodies of many negroes found in river beds and elsewhere were never publicly reported. Murtagh said. Mr. Hoover, the speaker charged, was just not interested. It was only when the late Mr. King demanded an investigation of these and other conditions, that the FBI decided to move in, he added.

Then followed, he said, the campaign to discredit the Southern clergyman-civil rights leader. It was insinuated that he had communist connections and was guilty of other un-American activities, Murtagh claimed and also stated that Kennedy was forced by the FBI to give the agency authority to tap Martin Luther King's phone lines and that he was stalked, watched and listened-to month after month. Attempts were also made, Murtagh charged, to sabotage the Nobel Prize Award dinner to honor King.

Murtagh stated that he longed to speak out while in the FBI but knew that his career would be ruined if he did. He praised the Washington Post and New York Times for disclosing the Watergate scandal and added, "Isn't it strange that both of these newspapers were hated by Hoover and the FBI?"

Murtagh classified the late J. Edgar Hoover along with Ehrlichman, Haldeman and Dean as representing a dangerous element in our federal government.

By RALEIGH BRYANS

Several prominent Atlantans Monday said they were not aware, in 1965, of any attempts by FBI agents to persuade them they should not attend a dinner to honor the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Former Mayor Ivan Allen Jr., Mayor Sam Massell, former Atlanta Police Chief Herbert T. Jenkins and Helen Bullard, one of the white organizers of the dinner for Dr. King, said they recalled no such activity on the part of the FBI.

They were reacting to statements by Arthur Murtagh, now a lawyer in Coendale, N.Y., but for 11 years (until 1971) an agent in the FBI headquarters in Atlanta, in an interview with the New York Times.

Murtagh told the times among other things that the FBI had used information it obtained through electronic surveillance in an effort to discredit the civil rights leader among his white backers.

To The Atlanta Journal Monday, Murtagh reiterated something else he had said—that there had been a well-orchestrated effort by the FBI to discourage attendance of white leaders at the dinner in 1965 which was organized to acknowledge King's receipt of the Nobel Peace Prize a few months earlier (in October 1964).

If key Atlantans like those already named do not recall such activity by FBI agents, it may be because they don't want to, Murtagh stoutly maintained Monday.

"I think some of these people might not want to give the information even if they knew," he said.

Murtagh did say the gist of what FBI agents were attempting to do was to convince people, including a couple of Atlanta clergymen and the late Ralph McGill, publisher of The Atlanta Constitution, that King, though married and projecting the image of a moral leader, was having affairs on the side with various women.

"What Eugene Patterson (former editor of The Constitution) says (in the New York Times article published Monday) is what it's all about," said Murtagh.

Patterson, now president and publisher of the St. Petersburg (Fla.) Times, said an FBI agent had called on him almost a year before the dinner in King's honor and told him King was known to be running around with women.

Former Mayor Allen, who attended the dinner given for King, said flatly that he could recall no such activity on the part of the FBI. Allen said he even checked back into his papers to refresh his memory.

Miss Bullard did recall that there had been some white business leaders who resisted the idea of the city's honoring Dr. King. But she said this initial resistance by a nominal number of persons largely vanished by the time the dinner came off.

"I think nearly everybody was there," recalled Miss Bullard. "The real creme de la creme was there that night and they walked in just as proudly as you please."

Enclosure

Murtagh said from his home Monday that his recollections about incidents in Atlanta will be included in a book he now is writing and would not have been brought out now except for the Watergate affair.

"My emphasis on this is in getting reform in the bureau (the FBI) and the only reason I got into it is because of the Watergate affair. I believe now that some of what I will be saying in my book will be believable in light of that (Watergate)."

Murtagh did gain credibility among some persons here in respect to the central statement that Dr. King was under surveillance by the FBI during the early and mid-'60s.

"He believed his telephone was bugged and I thought mine probably was too," said Maj. Howard Baugh of the Atlanta Police Department. Baugh, who is black, knew King quite well.

Former Police Chief Jenkins said: "A lot of things that are a surprise to other people (revelations in the Watergate affair) aren't any surprise to me."

The Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, King's close associate during the '60s and his successor as head of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said Murtagh is "telling the truth."

1965 INQUIET

Ex-Officials Deny

FBI Calls on King

Several former Atlanta officials Monday denied having been contacted in 1965 by FBI agents trying to talk them out of attending a banquet honoring Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Denials of FBI interference were issued by Mayor Sam Massell (then vice mayor), former Mayor Ivan Allen Jr. and former U.S. Congressman Charles Weltner.

Former Police Chief Herbert T. Jenkins declined comment and said, "I'd have to go back and refresh my memory."

The officials were responding to a story in The Constitution Monday quoting Arthur Murtagh, an update New York lawyer and 11 year veteran of the Atlanta FBI office, who said agents tried to dissuade local community leaders from attending a dinner in honor of King's winning the Nobel Peace Prize.

Murtagh said the agents warned that they had information about King, derived from wiretaps, that could prove an embarrassment to persons attending the testimonial.

As it turned out, the dinner was considered a success as some 1,500 persons including the major Atlanta political figures of the day, turned out on the evening of Jan. 27, 1965, at the Dinkler Plaza.

Former Mayor Allen said he received "no contact to my knowledge or memory and I did not hear any gossip from any sources."

Allen explained that there were some difficulties getting the banquet organized. "It was the first fully integrated dinner in any downtown Atlanta hotel. There were problems getting the dinner to other, but not the kind this man (Murtagh) reported," the former mayor said.

The dinner was held more than three months after King was announced as the 1964 recipient of the coveted peace

Wiretap of King Called a Watergate

CONSTABLE, N. Y. (UPI) — A former FBI agent whose squad allegedly was assigned to conduct electronic surveillance on the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. today compare the King wiretaps to the Watergate scandal.

Arthur Murtagh, 51, cited "an aura of righteousness" by those involved in both cases, and said a way must be found "to ensure we won't have any more Watergates."

Murtagh, a lawyer who retired from the FBI in 1971 following 21 years of service, said he was assigned to the security squad in the FBI's Atlanta office, where he worked for 11 years. He said the squad was responsible for tapping telephones related to the civil rights leader, and that the surveillance went on for at least three years and involved more than 5,600 telephone conversations.

"The surveillance was massive and complete," Murtagh said. "He (King) couldn't wiggle. They had him. Martin Luther King became the No. 1 bureau interest as far as the Atlanta office was concerned."

"The kind of thinking at the bureau kind of gives me a pit in the bottom of my stomach," he said. "A public servant should be governed by the same concepts of democracy and due process that you find in the courts."

Murtagh said FBI agents, by and large, "are a fine group of people — but they're not sensitive to what's going on around them."

The late J. Edgar Hoover, as director of the FBI, "had a plan in his mind," Murtagh said, "and it went right down to who he let in. He made the law and he was the law."

He said he believed Hoover wanted King's telephones tapped to get information to destroy the civil rights leader and silence criticism of the bureau's alleged failures to investigate the complaints of Negroes against white law enforcement officers in Albany, Ga., from 1961 to 1963.

The taping was reportedly done because of Hoover's belief that King had associations with subversive groups who sought to use the civil rights movement against the best interests of the United States.

Segretti is a young California attorney who has pleaded innocent in Florida on a charge of sending fake campaign literature. The Federal Bureau of Investigation has been told Segretti was paid $50,000 to $10,000 in campaign funds by President Nixon's former personal lawyer, Herbert W. Kalmbach.

Another Star-News story said Nixon campaign advisers still were distributing "hush money" to one or more of the seven convicted Watergate conspirators as recently as early April—about the same time that federal investigators were being told about efforts to cover up the scandal.

The principal recipient apparently was G. Gordon Liddy, said to be the organizer of the burglary of Democratic headquarters last year, the newspaper reported, quoting unnamed sources.

Liddy is the only one of the seven to have received a final sentence, and he is serving an additional jail term for refusing to testify under immunity.

A special Senate investigating committee resumes its televised Watergate hearings Tuesday with convicted burglar James W. McCord still the witness.

Sen. Sam J. Ervin, chairman of the committee, was asked whether the Senate probe could impede later prosecutions.

FBI Had 'Get King' Plot, Ex-Agent Says

CONSTABLE, N.Y. (NYT) — A former agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation says that in the 1960s the bureau used material gained in an electronic surveillance of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. in an apparent effort to undermine the late civil rights leader's support among his white bickers.

The former agent also said that many newspapermen were urged to write articles disclosing intimate details of Dr. King's personal life — details to be supplied by the bureau after they were picked up in telephone taps.

These taps on Dr. King were said to have been much more widespread than had previously been reported.

The former agent, Arthur Murtagh, a 51-year-old lawyer now practicing in Constable, N.Y., told the New York Times that important figures in the FBI even tried to persuade community leaders in Atlanta that they should not attend a banquet that was held to honor Dr. King after he won the Nobel Peace Prize in 1964. The persuasion was said to have included a warning that the bureau had derogatory information about Dr. King that might eventually embarrass those who attended the banquet.

In reflecting on the electronic surveillance of Dr. King, Murtagh said, "From all the things I saw, it appeared to me to be a 'get King' movement in the bureau. It was triggered by Hoover's hatred of King as a result of King's criticism of the bureau back in '62 and '63."

Murtagh retired from the bureau in September 1971 after 21 years, including 11 years in the Atlanta office. His account to the Times has been confirmed in interviews with various independent sources.

The fact that Dr. King's telephone was tapped has been well established. It was disclosed in 1968 while Sen. Robert F. Kennedy campaigned for the Democratic presidential nomination.

After Kennedy's murder in June 1968, his former associates said that the tap was installed when Kennedy, as attorney general, acquiesced in 1963 to J. Edgar Hoover's repeated demands for authority to tap. Hoover had argued that Dr. King had associations with subversive groups who sought to use the civil rights movement against the best interests of the United States.

In 1969, the tap on Dr. King was further described briefly in court hearings involving the draft violation conviction of Muhammad Ali, then the world heavyweight boxing champion.

These brief glimpses made it clear that the tap was instituted in October 1963 and was continued at least into 1965. There were suggestions that it lasted until 1968, when Dr. King was assassinated. The bureau has never given any information about the taps.

"Martin Luther King became the No. 1 bureau interest as far as the Atlanta office was concerned," Murtagh said. The former agent was a member of the 15 man group assigned to the security squad, and it was this group that conducted the electronic surveillance of Dr. King, Murtagh said.

Murtagh, who describes himself as one of a half-dozen liberals who survived in the bureau to reach retirement age, said he is now preparing his notes to write a book on his experiences.

Murtagh said he retired from the bureau on the first day he was eligible. He was very critical of the bureau in the interviews, which were held at his home.

He said that he could not offer proof, but that he believed completely that Hoover, as bureau director, sought the authority to tap King's phones in order to get information to destroy the civil rights leader and silence his criticism of the bureau's alleged failures to investigate the complaints of Negroes against white law enforcement officers in Albany, Ga., from 1961 to 1963.

Murtagh would not name agents who took part in the surveillance. He said that he believed they had been taking orders and that to name them now would cause them undeserved embarrassment. He said he had not taken part in the surveillance because he had told the supervisor in charge that he believed the tap was illegal.

When asked to explain how he could enforce such a refusal in a highly disciplined organization such as the FBI, Murtagh said that he had become known as a critic of some activities and that his work in the Atlanta office was valuable to the agent assigned to direct the office.

He was the paymaster and "control" for a network of undercover informers who were "in place" in black organizations that were growing in importance at that time. He said, for example, that he was able to learn almost anything he wanted to know about the operation of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, which Dr. King headed.

Murtagh said that he once challenged the agent who ran the surveillance to say whether there was justification for the contention that Dr. King was involved with subversives — the justification for the telephone tap. He quoted the agent as replying, "I would try to tell others that there was, but I wouldn't try to tell it to you."

Murtagh said that the extent of the electronic surveillance was never well understood outside limited circles within the bureau. He said that it went on for at least three years, and that more than 5,000 telephone conversations were monitored.

Previously published accounts of the telephone tap have indicated that only three telephones were involved — those in Dr. King's home, at the SCLC offices in Atlanta, and at an office in New York that was used by the person that Hoover had argued was a subversive attempting misuse Dr. King. It was this contention that caused Robert Kennedy to approve the telephone tap.

Murtagh said that telephones all over the United States were tapped and that it was not uncommon for the Atlanta bureau to discover that it had monitored a call and that the other end of the call had been monitored by a different listening post.

"The surveillance was massive and complete," Murtagh said. "He couldn't wiggle. They had him."

Sources in Washington confirmed the broad outlines of Murtagh's description. These sources confirmed that when Dr. King left Atlanta, the FBI electronic surveillance went with him and that his telephones in hotels in other cities were tapped, with reports of information derived from these taps fed into Washington as was the Atlanta data.

In another part of his interview, and again in a way that avoided the use of names, Murtagh said that after Dr. King won the Nobel Peace Prize, the bureau made a well-orchestrated attempt to undermine the success of the banquet that was held in Dr. King's honor in Atlanta.

Murtagh said that persons who understood his critical attitude toward the bureau's activities in the civil rights field told him that an agent from the Atlanta office and one of the top officials from Washington headquarters had called on two religious leaders and on the late Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, to attempt to persuade them not to attend the banquet.

Murtagh would not name the agent or the headquarters official. But he said that the morning after the Washington man arrived at the Atlanta office, the agent said to Murtagh, "We're going to get him today. Hoover is going to take care of King today."

Murtagh said that the bureau had agents assigned to be the contact men for persons such as newspaper editors and that the man he quoted had been the contact for McGill. This agent took the Washington men to see McGill and the next day told Murtagh, "I guess McGill will be taking care of King." But the editor made no attack on Dr. King.

While the death of McGill and the refusal of Murtagh to name the agents made it impossible to corroborate his story, an interview with Eugene Patterson, former editor of The Constitution, produced a recollection that parallels the story told by Murtagh.

Patterson, now president and publisher of the St. Petersburg, Fla., Times, said that in the spring of 1964 he was called on by an FBI agent, whom he would not name.

"You people have been giving support to Martin Luther King," Patterson quoted the agent as saying. "Don't you owe it to your readers to tell them what kind of man he is? Our information is that while he postures as a great moral leader, he is running around with women. Don't you think your readers ought to know this?"

"I told him we didn't run a keyhole-peeping newspaper," Patterson remembered saying. "I told him that kind of thing had nothing to do with the civil rights movement."

Patterson said the agent told him that Dr. King would meet a woman at an airport in Florida that weekend, and insisted that The Constitution send a reporter and photographer to record the meeting.

Patterson refused. Some days later, the agent returned and again insisted that "he couldn't understand why a newspaper would not print the news if we give it to you," Patterson said.

A day or so later, according to Patterson, the agent called and said, "Our information is that the meeting is off so it's a good thing you didn't send anybody down there."

SUBJECT: MARTIN LUTHER KING, JR.

SECURITY MATTER - COMMUNIST

The purpose of this memorandum is to furnish you information developed by a file review regarding allegations of former Special Agent (SA) Arthur Murtagh in "The New York Times" 5/21/73.

My memorandum 5/23/73 indicated Murtagh alleged important figures in the FBI tried to persuade community leaders in Atlanta, Georgia, they should not attend a banquet honoring King, with the warning that the Bureau had information about King that might eventually embarrass those who attended. He alleged that an Agent in Atlanta told him a top official from Washington called on two religious leaders and the late Ralph McGill, editor of the "Atlanta Constitution," to try to persuade them not to attend.

The attached copy of a memorandum from former Assistant to the Director W. C. Sullivan to A. H. Belmont dated 1/21/65 indicates that Sullivan did talk at least twice with McGill and discussed that subject and that McGill was to contact three religious leaders.

REC-8 100-106670-3447

"The New York Times" article also indicated that Eugene Patterson, former editor of the "Atlanta Constitution," produced a recollection that a Special Agent of the FBI attempted in the Spring of 1964 to have Patterson expose King's running-around with women while posing as a moral leader.

The attached memorandum W. C. Sullivan to A. H. Belmont dated 1/16/64 captioned "Communist Party, USA, Negro Question; Communist Influence in Racial Matters, IS - C," possibly pertains to this recollection by Patterson. We have located no reference that Patterson was subsequently utilized as the memorandum indicated that he could be.

This morning [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] and a long-time admirer of the Director, dropped by the office to discuss with me Martin Luther King, Jr. With Bureau approval, I had previously given [REDACTED] some of the basic facts concerning King's connections with communism.

[REDACTED] told me that on being advised of the facts concerning King, he has remained completely silent. As a result, he is being questioned by associates [REDACTED] as to why he is not speaking out in favor of King and [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] said that he would never disclose a confidence and, therefore, his only reply is that he no longer is an admirer of Martin Luther King. Further, he has talked with some other men who have told him of their knowledge of King [REDACTED] and their concern about it. In view of this, he is free to speak a little bit more in detail and says he has done so for it can be attributed to the men with whom he has spoken.

[REDACTED] said that these men are [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] He told me that [REDACTED] advised [REDACTED] without being questioned about King that he is aware of King [REDACTED] told [REDACTED] that he considers King to be a very dangerous man to the civil rights movement and that something should be done about it. [REDACTED] told [REDACTED] that he has never been an admirer of King's although he thinks King has done some good things; that a few months ago he began hearing very disturbing stories about King [REDACTED] believes that King should be maneuvered out of the civil rights field or else he will do it serious damage. [REDACTED] likewise informed [REDACTED] that he had heard some time ago about King [REDACTED] is very disturbed over it and wishes something could be done but he has no specific course to recommend.

[REDACTED]

[REDACTED] told me that [REDACTED] are also quite active in support [REDACTED] for King. He said that he is certain that not one of these three is aware of King [REDACTED]. I told him that in view of what [REDACTED] had told him, he might want to explore very confidentially and discreetly the subject matter with these three men. He said he would do this.

[REDACTED] told me that he thinks it is too late now, especially in view of the [REDACTED] to prevent the banquet from taking place. [REDACTED] said he would do what he could to encourage key people to limit their praise and support of King as much as possible.

[REDACTED] also told me that he is taking steps [REDACTED] to get key Negro leaders to unite in opposition to King and to gradually force him out of the civil rights movement if at all possible.

[REDACTED] said that he would like to have President Johnson know three things-- (1) that from diverse sources he has learned of [REDACTED] Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., and his deceiving of sincere, good people in this Nation who have been supporting King; (2) that he regrets greatly that the banquet is being given in King's honor next week in Atlanta but that it has gone so far that it is probably not possible to head it off; and (3) that he believes that the very best thing that could happen would be to have King step completely out of the civil rights movement and public life for he feels that if this is not done, sooner or later King will be publicly exposed and this will do irreparable harm to the civil rights movement in which [REDACTED] others are so interested and have worked so hard for, and likewise, it will do injury to different citizens of the country who have been supporting King not knowing that he [REDACTED]

[redacted] said that if he had had time to see President Johnson before leaving Washington, he would have told him these three things, but that he wanted the Director to know that he is free to quote him on these three points to the President and free to put all three things in any communication that goes to the White House from the Bureau.

It is very refreshing to meet a man of [redacted] stature [redacted] who is so sincere and honest and desirous of doing the right thing. He is a very admirable man. Repeatedly, [redacted] told me that he will continue to stay with this problem and to think about it, hoping that he will devise some plan or course of action that will help to take King out of public life. [redacted] told me in a visibly disturbed manner that this problem centering around King has caused him to wake up at night from time to time and he is very upset over it. [redacted] explained that while he has never been close to King or an active supporter thereof, he has been completely identified and very active in furthering civil rights and better conditions for the Negroes. He thinks that King's behavior now known to him when publicly exposed will do irreparable damage to such social causes that he and others have been sponsoring throughout a lifetime.

Yesterday afternoon (1/15/64) I talked on the telephone with our Atlanta Office and at that time spoke with SA [REDACTED] who is working on the Martin Luther King case. [REDACTED] advised me that he is a very close personal friend of [REDACTED]

Realizing what a scoundrel King is, [REDACTED] began to think about possible ways and means of exposing King which would be of benefit to the Bureau. While talking to [REDACTED] on other matters, [REDACTED] theorized with [REDACTED] about men of questionable character in public life and did [REDACTED] think they should be exposed. [REDACTED] took a strong stand on the matter and said it would be a public service if some people were exposed. Of course, no reference at all was made to King by [REDACTED]. Said that knowing [REDACTED] personally and getting his views indirectly on this general subject matter leads [REDACTED] to believe that if at any time in the future the Bureau would want to utilize [REDACTED] and [REDACTED] it could be done very securely.

I thanked [REDACTED] for his interest in this matter and told him that this type of thing would be handled out of the Bureau headquarters and that if we thought this particular person could be utilized he would be advised but to take no action until that time.

The violence was the counterpart of a violence on the part of the right wing, which characterized the assaults upon Dr. Martin Luther King and others for peaceably demonstrating in an effort to achieve racial equality in this country. The "Washington Post Times Herald" dated 2/14/68 carried an article captioned "King's Plan To Protest Is Decried". In the article L. Brent Bozell (62-100956) warned members of the WDC Bar Association that if Martin Luther King's poor peoples' camp-in in Washington, April, 1968, was permitted to succeed, it would have a devastating effect on law enforcement across the country.

The following references in the file captioned "Demonstrations Protesting United States Intervention In Vietnam" pertain to the activities or planned activities of Martin Luther King from 3/25/67 to 2/15/68 in Georgia, Illinois, Massachusetts and New York. King led participation in demonstrations, spoke advocating a cease fire in Vietnam claiming the US as the aggressor, and initiated the 1967 Vietnam Summer Program which called for an organizing effort to end the war in Vietnam. The CP and other organizations were successful in the merger of the civil rights forces of King with the peace forces agitating against US policy in Vietnam and they supported King for President on the 1968 independent peace ticket. On 8/6/67 King was scheduled as featured speaker for Youth Day at Expo '67 in Montreal, Canada, and was also scheduled to speak at a demonstration in WDC on 2/5-6/68 sponsored by Clergy and Laymen Concerned About Vietnam, a group which opposed US policy in Vietnam.

[REDACTED] Your letter of April 17th, with enclosures, has been received. With respect to your comments, information concerning the alleged communist affiliations of Martin Luther King, whether substantiated or not, cannot be released because of Department of Justice regulations regarding all matters of a confidential nature.

For your information, at a press conference on November 18, 1964, I stated that Martin Luther King was the most notorious liar in the country. I did so because he had grossly distorted the facts concerning our Special Agents handling civil rights investigations in the South. I have not retracted that statement.

Sincerely yours,

J. Edgar Hoover

Conclusion:

In a manner of the fed-up "silent majority", I let my action speak louder than my words when I closed my account at the First National Bank of Chicago recently after they sponsored a 90-minute documentary eulogizing Dr. Martin Luther King. Much more of this and they will be making his birthday a legal holiday!

I never accused Dr. King of being an out-and-out Communist, but certainly the man was not an apostle of peace, decided which Jesus he would obey, openly identified with Communists and radicals, had a Communist as an adviser, advocated racism, revolution and civil disobedience, and preached a straight Communist line. In addition to all that, did anyone could get in print against him was the quote of J. Edgar Hoover that Dr. King was, a "most notorious liar". It seems to me a mere trichotomy that he did not carry a Communist membership card--he carried the Communist message and has done more harm than good for the negro citizenry.

What disturbs me, therefore, is how you could clear Dr. King of any suspicion and overlook his Communist affiliations as per copy of letter from [redacted]

I understand the limitation of the FBI as a fact-finder and not a law enforcer, and I guess I only write this letter out of sheer frustration that more of the facts you uncover are not more widely advertised. In other words, I believe your department should be duty bound to speak out louder and clearer on the dubious connections, backgrounds and motives of the numerous anarchists who are today being treated as heroes.

May I hear from you as to where I can obtain any official report on Mr. Martin Luther King?

I was deeply disappointed in Wm. F. Goss and the First National Bank
I oppose sponsorship of a film documentary on the life of Martin Luther King. FBI director J. Edgar Hoover called Dr. King a "notorious liar" and was about to divulge the Communist affiliations of Dr. King about the time he was assassinated, and, of course, that had to be aborted. There are countless numbers of negroes who know the real Dr.
King was not an apostle of peace but who stirred up violence wherever he went, aid who surrounded himself with Communists and accepted Communist funds.

I enclose a pamphlet which gives greater detail, although I have had other publications which I gave away previously which were perhaps better and which I shall more to send on the subject. However, I am certainly convinced of Mr. Fuld's Communist activities and influences and much want to think you would publicize such a man, particularly in these turbulent times when America's "free" people are hopelessly divided on so many vital issues--divided not because answers are honestly sought for, but simply to frustrate and promote conflicts between racial, religious, social and political groups, to pave the way for Communist ideology. Our news media is nothing short of all such radicals, even to giving respectability to the Marxist-Maoist sociopolitical program as an answer to all our social ills.

I am so sorry to do this, but wish to withdraw funds on deposit with your bank per enclosed. I am sure this is an insignificant sum to you, but I want no part of any institution which would promote further discord among Americans, knowingly or unknowingly. I believe it is up to each citizen to uphold the great traditions and free enterprise system of our great country or we will soon lose all our precious and hard-won freedoms. This is just my small part in trying to call attention to the dangers which I see.

Sincerely,

Dear [REDACTED]

I have read your letter of April 11 with more than casual interest. I was well aware of the FBI's inquiry into the question as to whether Martin Luther King had any Communist affiliations and discussed this at some length with senior FBI personnel several years ago during Mr. King's lifetime. Subsequently, I heard indirectly that they had become convinced that he was not a Communist and did not follow the Communist line.

When the television program was offered to us, I again got in touch with the FBI to learn what their ultimate conclusions were and was advised that their examination had indicated that there had been no affiliation and that he was cleared of such suspicion. It was only after this further inquiry that I approved of our using the film.

There is no question but that Mr. King's presence and leadership did serve to focus or give voice to discontent amongst the Negroes. But the discontent was already there and Mr. King led it in essentially non-violent directions. It is my own feeling that had he not asserted this leadership, others might well have directed the Negroes' unhappiness into much more violent forms of expression. As a consequence, I believe that Mr. King effectively called to public attention abuses of which the blacks were suffering and achieved some amelioration of the unjust conditions, and at the same time I think he avoided greater violence that would have resulted from other leadership.

This is a difficult subject and I recognize that others have different opinions. But one of the great advantages of our society is that there is room for differences of opinion and that we can get along peacefully despite such differences.

I am sorry that you felt it necessary to withdraw your deposit from our bank and hope that sometime in the future you may see fit to re-establish the relationship.

With appreciation for your letter,

Sincerely,

Your letter of April 19th has been received.
With respect to your inquiry, at a press conference on November 18, 1964, I stated that Martin Luther King was the most notorious liar in the country. I did so because he had grossly distorted the facts concerning our Special Agents handling civil rights investigations in the South.

Dear Sir:

Several years ago, the late Mr. Martin Luther King addressed a speech to a civil rights rally in the capital city. In this address, he used the phrase 'I have a dream...' reportedly while referring to a classless, peaceful society. Since then, I have been audience to many statements (rumors, as I have no documented source) that you believed Mr. King to be a hypocrite and a liar and that you said as much. Will you please confirm or deny this as to the truth?
Thank you sincerely.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

I am an educator and an avid J. Edgar Hoover fan and admirer, and I pray you remain at your present post until God calls you up there.

I showed the enclosed pamphlet by Mrs. Julia Brown to some liberal "friends" of mine who say that what she writes is all "bull" and not a word of truth in it. I believe that Martin Luther King was a communist and made a "hero" by the Administration as a tool to calm down black disorders. I also believe that Mr. Martin did help the cause of the black people and he knowingly was used by communists to agitate the blacks and some others against law and order.

God bless and keep you, Mr. Hoover, to continue serving your country for the welfare of all true Americans, some of whom are gullibly trapped in the communist webb.

Dear Mr. Hoover,

I received your reply to my request concerning Martin Luther King. I'm sorry but your reply did not help me. I am not asking for confidential information of any sort which the FBI has gathered. What I am asking for though, is your own personal opinion. I'm looking for a statement of position like the one you took when you called Doctor King a communist a few years back. If it wasn't confidential to claim he was a communist then why is it confidential to state what your opinion of the man is now.

I hate sounding so forceful but my relatives are actually under the impression that Martin Luther was a evil-doer because of what you said about him. If you refuse to give your opinion, which you have every right to do, you will be alienating todays youth, blacks, minorities, and anyone who is at all "liberal". The Governments failure to tie up loose ends which make it appear distrustful is the prime reason the youth of today are rebelling against the supposed democratic system. For Humanity's sake please respond.

Dear Mr. Hoover

At a [REDACTED] Community Relations meeting at the municipal building on [REDACTED] N.J. two evenings ago on [REDACTED] the question came up among the committee members pertaining to a school holiday in honor of the late Rev. Martin Luther King. On this [REDACTED] Community Relations Committee there are members of the clergy--priests, rabbis, ministers-- and business and civic leaders within the township [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] The members of the Board of Education apparently have asked this committee that the mayor and the [REDACTED] Committee go on record requesting that a national holiday be set with the Board of Education in memory of the late Rev. Martin Luther King.

I am the outspoken one on the committee in regard to this matter. I recall in a publication from you pertaining to the late Rev. Martin Luther King, that he was the biggest liar in America (I am quoting you on this). At a later date, I personally attended a meeting that was held in Paramus, N.J.. At the time, as I recall, the Rev. Martin Luther King was in Manhattan making speeches and was stabbed with a knife thus necessitating his being hospitalized. At this meeting of which I was speaking, there was more than 2,500 people present. A colored woman was introduced to this gathering. She had a stack of papers on the podium and make this statement to the gathering, and I quote, "In the event that there are any questions or doubts in your mind as to statements I am going to make," (she then pointed to the stack of papers in front of her) "I was an undercover agent for the FBI for eight or nine years. It is all recorded here in these papers, and there are copies of said papers in the offices of the FBI."

Mr. Hoover, I very distinctly remember the words she spoke to the gathering at that time. First of all, she stated that she attended the same Communist school in Tennessee that Martin Luther King attended. Now, as a minister and a God-fearing man, it is hard to believe that this woman, in the presence of 2,500 people would stand up and make this public statement unless it was true. When the question came up I thought about it very much. From the years 1936 to the present time, when and wherever possible that I could I have exposed Communism, and I feel that there is no place in America for such. This Communism is certainly immoral to our children and to our populace as a whole in America. I, therefore, brought the question up before the clergy and the members of this committee on Thursday evening, [REDACTED] In the City Hall in the [REDACTED] N.J. I stated that for this committee to propose such a holiday in memory of the late Martin Luther King it would be necessary to vote on it. And before I would vote upon such I would have to have facts of these statements that had been circulated in reference to the late Martin Luther King. I made myself very clear to this committee, as I often do, being an outspoken person against such things, and I stated to them that we should hold this in abeyance until we are officially notified of this information.

b7(c)

Therefore, I am taking the privilege of writing to you in regard to this statement made by the colored woman in reference to the late Martin Luther King. From all appearances, this woman was a well-bred, intelligent person, and did not leave the impression that she was a person that would deliberately get up and lie before 2,500 people. Therefore, I would appreciate from your good offices the information pertaining to the late Martin Luther King on whether or not he was a Communist and attended a Communist school in Tennessee. I think that the decent citizenry of [REDACTED] N.J. and others should know this and they should know it officially. And I certainly will not vote or have my name appear on any literature proposing a national holiday for a Communist now or ever. I will do whatever I can to expose such, and I think it should be exposed to the Christian people of America.

With kindest regards to you and yours I hope and pray that the Lord has been really good to you and all

Very truly yours

Dear Mr. Hoover;

I have just one simple question. Was Martin Luther King a communist?
Please answer this question. I am white and it bothers me to think

Dear Sir:

I am a citizen of the state of Florida and am dismayed with our governor's actions of attempting to set aside a day for the known communist party member, Martin Luther King. Sir, it is a well known fact that King was associated with the communist party. Therefore I cannot see why Governor Askew would commemorate such a person as King.

Sir, I am having a petition signed against such a day being set aside for a known communist such as King or any other communist for that matter. Sir, if it would be of no inconvenience to you I would appreciate any information concerning King's activities with the communist party. With evidence of his background I will be able to gain more signatures for my petition. I sincerely thank-you for your time and efforts involved.

I am,

Sirs:

On the WHO, WHAT or WHERE show November 16, Art James certainly heard to refer to J. Edgar Hoover a bigot. The answer had to do with a Washington official calling Martin liar.

Granting that your writer of the question and/or Mr. James is ignorant, don't they have recourse to a common dictionary?

Regardless of any biased opinion any member of your staff might have, you have no right to level any such cant phrase at any person --- public official or not. Art James was not speaking editorially.

For the benefit of the racist compiling the question and answer, King had been taking pot shots at the FBI and was called to task by Mr. Hoover. After the black militant left the Director's office he never again opened his mouth on the subject of the FBI in a derogatory manner. We can hope that some day in a more enlightened future the muzzling shackles will be removed and the file on The Dreamer aired to the public; that, more for the edification of Negroes that they may better understand what made their self-appointed leader click.

One of the many charges aimed at King was that he was anything but the god-like moralist he purportedly presented himself to be. His propensity for spares in the females department was reported nationally and the subject (to my ever watchful eye) has yet to be refuted by any of his followers or his wife. It was conveniently ignore

God's appointed was mere man and the black racist of the century.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

Next year the employees of the Wayne County Road Commission (Michigan) will be given a day off in honor of the birthday of Martin Luther King. I am one of those employees and, as much as I enjoy a day off, I do not want one off in his honor. I am no racist and would be proud to celebrate the birthday of Booker T. Washington or Dr. George Washington Carver, who loved our country very much and contributed greatly to it.

King, the "Apostle of Non-Violence" (but whose visits to cities were always followed by violence), did not love our country and followed the Communist line very closely, but I do not have to tell you that. You have been quoted as calling him the "most notorious liar in the country" and I would appreciate it very much if you could give me any information that I can use in requesting that I be permitted to work on his birthday.

Thank you very much. God bless you! Keep fighting for our beloved country.

Gentlemen:

A movement has been promoted in Iowa Methodism for some time, to set aside a Sunday, near Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday, to promote racial harmony. The Methodist Conferences in Iowa recently voted to do this.

I have at hand, a clipping from the Christian Century dealing with this matter, written by a Dr. Jenkins, an eastern minister in which reference is made to a taping of Dr. King's conversations, some of which conversations compromised his moral integrity in the sex field.

I believe that the FBI has the right to do this. And, I wish to learn, if the FBI actually has a record in its files, of such a wire tapping finding.

I initiated the Iowa movement. But, if you have such a record as above described, we, in Iowa Methodism should, I believe, omit the Dr. King observance, in favor of some other person, for example, Dr. George Washington Carver. Thank you.

Dear Sir:

This is a request for information. Around June or July 1969 the New York Times printed a number of articles criticizing the FBI for the wire tapping of Martin Luther King's telephones. I understand that the FBI presented as evidence a letter of authorization from Attorney General Kennedy, and the Times promptly buried the letter in the newspaper.

Would you please tell me if my information about the letter is true and the date and page on which it was printed.

King Wiretap Called RFK's Idea Hoover Asserts Memo to FBI Cited Concern Over Marxism

(Copyright 1969 by
The Evening Star Newspaper Co.)

By JEREMIAH O'LEARY
Star Staff Writer

Wiretapping of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.'s telephone was proposed to the FBI by then Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy in June, 1963, and authorized by him in writing later that year, FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover told The Star today.

Hoover revealed the contents of two memorandums in one of which Kennedy expressed concern about possible infiltration of the race issue by Marxists and spoke of allegations that the Negro leader was closely associated with Marxist ideas and followers.

That memorandum to Hoover, dated June, 1963, was written by Courtney Evans, then assistant director of the FBI and liaison man with the Justice Department. It reported the substance of a conversation Evans had just had with Kennedy in which the Attorney General asked about the feasibility of installing electronic devices on King's telephones. King headed the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

Concerned About Allegations

Kennedy, according to the Evans memo, was concerned about reports that King was a student of Marxism, that he was associating with a New York attorney with known Communist connections, but that he did not openly espouse Marxism because of his religious beliefs. The Evans memorandum indicated Kennedy wanted to know if it was technically feasible to use electronic devices to prove or disprove these allegations.

The Evans memo said Evans replied to Kennedy that King was a man who traveled almost constantly and that it was extremely difficult to use wiretaps effectively in such cases.

Hoover told The Star that FBI officials also informed Kennedy at that time that they doubted the advisability of undertaking electronic surveillance of Dr. King because of possible political repercussions.

However, the second memorandum cited by Hoover shows that on October 7, 1963, the FBI chief reported to Kennedy that it was then technically feasible to apply wiretaps to King's telephones at two places, one of them at an unnamed location in New York.

That memorandum constituted the FBI's request for authority

Hoover did not indicate to The Star when the surveillance was started but said the taps were discontinued on April 30, 1965. At that time Nicholas Katzenbach was serving as Attorney General.

Asked about the results of the electronic surveillance today, Hoover declined comment.

The FBI director told The Star: "I have never authorized installation of technical electronic devices without written authority of the Attorney General."

Today's disclosures climaxed a long smoldering controversy over the role of the FBI, a subordinate bureau of the Justice Department, in using wiretaps or other electronic devices in investigative matters. The matter came to a head Sunday when Carl Rowan, a columnist for The Star, charged that the FBI had no authority to wiretap Dr. King's conversations. He quoted former Attorney General Ramsey Clark, who succeeded Katzenbach, as saying "the implication that people thought Dr. King was a security threat is outrageous."

The Rowan charges prompted Associate FBI Director Clyde A. Tolson to write to Rowan early this week defending legality of the King wiretaps.

"For your information," Tolson said in his letter, "the wiretap on Martin Luther King Jr. was specifically approved in advance in writing by the late attorney general of the United States, Mr. Robert F. Kennedy."

Tolson added that the monitoring device was "strictly in the field of internal security and therefore was within the provision laid down by the President of the United States." Friends of Robert Kennedy had suggested in recent days that, during 1964, in the period after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, the attorney general's interest in some of his official affairs had flagged. However, the assessment by the Justice Department spokesman was "accurate in every respect" in his repeated statements that all wiretaps were being authorized in advance and in writing by the Attorney General during the time-span of the controversy.

A Justice department spokesman, asked today if Attorney General John N. Mitchell had given Hoover permission to discuss the contents of secret documents of the King wiretapping, replied simply, "no comment."

responsible for use of hidden microphones in investigations. However, the spokesman recalled that the attorney general had declined to authorize disclosure of a February, 1966, letter to closures in court of the basic him from Evans which made the authority for the wiretapping. Such disclosures had been de-manded by defense lawyers in point that the use of hidden microphones was not Kennedy's responsibility but suggested he may have directly approved the use of wiretaps on phones. That Cassius Clay. It was during that letter said the FBI sent national security wiretap requests to the Houston draft evasion hearing for former boxing champion Kennedy for approval.

It is reliably reported that Kennedy was reminded by the FBI that it still had in its files the authorizations signed by him as Attorney General for telephonic wiretaps. However, Hoover did not disclose at that time any names of persons under wiretap surveillance with Kennedy's approval.

CLARK SUGGESTS THAT HOOVER QUIT

Comments in Controversy
on Dr. King Wiretapping

By JOHN HIRSCHER
Special to The Times

WASHINGTON, June 20.—Former Attorney General Robert Kennedy Clark suggested today that J. Edgar Hoover retire as director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

"I think, perhaps, the time has come when he should retire, both in the interests of his own career, which has been distinguished, and in the interests of the FBI, which has been a great investigating agency," Mr. Clark said in an interview with the Columbia Broadcasting System.

His suggestion was contained in a confidential memo involving the wiretapping of the Rev. Dr. Martin Luther King Jr.

Mr. Clark said that Robert F. Kennedy, Mr. and Mrs. King's son, was a former General Mr. Clark and Mr. Kennedy had discussed the matter. Mr. Clark told the Associated Press that the Hoover-King statements were misleading.

President Agrees

President Lyndon B. Johnson has agreed to the suggestion, made by Mr. Clark and found in the letter, that Dr. King be given a full hearing.

This, however, was not disclosed at a press conference held yesterday.

In his letter of May 22, Mr. Clark, then Senator Robert Kennedy, told Dr. King that he had "confidence in the civil rights laws which have been passed" and that the "federal government is fully involved with you in your demands for justice, equality and freedom of choice."

On May of that year, The Atlanta Constitution carried an article saying that Jack H. O'Dell, Mr. Clark's aide who has been reported by the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee and the House Committee on Un-American Activities to have been linked with Communist activity, was a member of Dr. King's staff.

Mr. Clark said Mr. O'Dell had been "unrelated to" Dr. King "for some time." But Mr. O'Dell "may have had some connections in the past" with Communism but he was convinced that Mr. O'Dell had renounced them.

The Justice Department was then allied with Dr. King's organization in a number of efforts to break down segregation, and it was known that there was concern within the department about the involvement of persons in the civil rights movement with Communist backgrounds.

Broad National Support

Dr. King's efforts then had broad national support. Liberals who backed the efforts generally believed that it would be at least a tactical alliance against the opposition and the movement of any elements that could be branded anti-American.

The movement and its leaders were reportedly kept under constant surveillance by the FBI, both for their protection from white racists and because of the bureau's interest in Communism. In the south, Dr. King had as many as 15 agents tracking him.

In a celebrated news conference last month, Mr. Hoover called Dr. King "the most notorious liar in the country" for saying that FBI agents in Atlanta, Ga., had failed to act on the civil rights complaints of Negroes.

In 1963, white officials began talking to the FBI about what the bureau had learned about Dr. King that could be damaging. The bureau would say nothing about how about those statements that it had never filed for examination.

On December 16, 1963, Senator George A. Smathers of Florida, a Southerner from New York, engaged in a widely publicized dispute over the bureau's eavesdropping activities. Senator Kennedy said that he had not been aware of all of the results of electronic surveillance. Mr. Hoover replied that was "absurd, ridiculous."

Wiretapping Disclosed

Last June it was disclosed in a hearing in Houston on an appeal by Cassius Clay, the former heavyweight boxing champion, from his conviction for refusing to be drafted after the FBI had tapped Dr. King's telephone calls.

Later, after Carl T. Rowan, then continental director of Dr. King's wiretapping, the FBI released a letter to Mr. Rowan from Clyde A. Tolson, associate director, saying that the wiretap was "specially approved in advance in writing by the late Attorney General of the United States, Mr. Robert F. Kennedy," and was done "strictly in the field of internal security."

Yesterday, Mr. Hoover said in a rare newspaper interview, with The Washington Star, that he had more authority than Attorney Evans, then assistant attorney general and liaison officer with the Justice Department, giving Mr. Kennedy "to be the initiator."

In June of 1963, Mr. Hoover said, the Evans memorandum showed, Mr. Kennedy said he was concerned about reports that Dr. King had Marxist leanings—Dr. King consistently denied this charge—and wanted use electronic devices to probe or disprove the allegations, specifically to check on Dr. King's reported coming with a New York lawyer with Communist connections.

Mr. Evans's reply, Mr. Hoover said, was that it would be difficult to tap Dr. King's lines because of his constant travels.

But in the following October the Bureau advised Mr. Kennedy that it was feasible to tap the lines of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in Atlanta, and this was done, according to Mr. Hoover's reading of Mr. Evans's memorandum, come.

The wiretap was discontinued on April 30, 1967, several days before Dr. King's assassination, Mr. Hoover told The Star.

Mr. Clark, who was in the Justice Department all this time, "wasn't involved in the wiretap," Mr. Hoover said. "That developed in early January. The FBI had the other lead, by a Dr. King." "The FBI had no right especially requesting me to authorize F.B.I. wiretaps on Dr. King while I was Attorney General," he said. "I told them, 'No, you can't do that.' I told them two days before the murder of Dr. King, on April 4, 1968."

Dear Mr. Hoover,

We have an enrollment of approximately 1700 high school students here at Hillcrest. We are trying to teach history to them the way it really happened. However, we have heard so many rumors concerning Dr. Martin Luther King's activities - that some of them were quite subversive. There is even a picture in Sumter, S. C. (our nearest town) that shows him meeting with a Communist group.

We feel that it would be unfair to our students to give them any information not confirmed by your organization so we would appreciate anything you could tell us concerning this subject.

Thank you for your time and help.

Yours truly,

Dear Mr. Hoover:

b6 b7C DATE 2-17-81 BY SP4 JDM/jd

A friend and I, both members of the newly formed American Postal Workers Union, have been trying to impress on the APWU President, Francis S. Filbey, 817 14th Street NW, the folly of a current demand that the birthday of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. be celebrated as a holiday by postal workers. Our letters to President Filbey, outlining such facts as King's association with known Communists such as Darkowski, the Bradens, O'dell, King's membership in numerous Communist fronts, and the Presidents withdrawal of proposed federal support for the King memorial in Atlanta have been answered by brief letters thanking us for our comments.

At a recent meeting of postal clerks here in Greenville, Texas, I asked our National Vice-President about this demand and he assured me that the demand is based on a resolution approved at the last postal clerks national convention in Los Angeles, and, as a result, President Filbey's hands are tied in the matter. I have since learned that there were many abstentions in that vote on the resolution which, as I recall, called for celebrating Dr. King's birthday inasmuch as we honor the birthdays of other great Americans such as George Washington and no great American Negroes are presently so honored.

My purpose in writing this letter, Mr. Hoover, is the hope that I may be able to convince you and Mr. Filbey and his staff to sit down and frankly discuss the pro-Communist activities of Dr. King and the consequences of honoring his birthday. I believe that a private exchange of views on this subject would be very beneficial to the APWU. And I am firmly convinced that you, Sir, can convince the APWU staff that continued support of this demand would be detrimental to America and accepted with glee by the Communist Party of the U. S.

There is one thing I would like you to know about President Filbey. During the last presidential campaign the question of wearing political badges and buttons in postal facilities was raised and, being denied the right, I filed a proper grievance on the subject. Mr. Filbey gave his whole-hearted support to my side and, even after I had given up, he persisted and convinced the Department to issue a clarification which upheld our political rights. For this and other reasons, I believe that President Filbey is a great American who, properly informed, will strongly oppose the forces of evil that are attempting to destroy this great republic. I am also confident that, if it comes to it, Mr. Filbey will not hesitate to put his job on the line to stand up for America.

feet of cable was placed and spliced in the various areas. It was necessary to occasionally pull off this work due to threatened civil disorders.

Southern Bell Television crews and Supervisors from Georgia, Florida, Alabama, and South Carolina established 11 microwave television systems using 12 links. Six remote television pick-ups covered proceedings at Ebenezer Church, the procession route, Morehouse Quadrangle, and Southview Cemetery. Eleven video pairs were added from the Toll Building to the Hurt Building to serve these microwave systems and the Atlanta Television Stations.

Fifty additional circuits were added to the 4A Machine in the Toll Building for service to Washington, D.C., New York City, Detroit, and Chicago. On 4-S-68 from 10:30 a.m. until 11:30 a.m. the 4 A Machine handled 97,200 calls. Prior to this, the highest peak load in an hour had been 86,000 calls.

The Atlanta Division Heads of Southern Bell along with Long Lines and Western Electric worked together as a team to coordinate provision of these facilities and protection of employees and service in the Atlanta Area. The Security Department working with the Police Department provided advice and necessary protection. We are happy to report that no accidents and no serious incidents were encountered by our employees.

Dear Sir:

In regards to communication I submitted to resident agency at Portland, Maine October 23, 1970, and telephone conversation I had with you on November 2, 1970, 11:40 A.M., regarding Headquarters City investigation of the matter.

I realize there is no action which the Federal government can undertake against Congressman William D. Hathaway and that his activities do not go beyond the protective area of the First Amendment.

Nevertheless, this anti- FBI and anti-American U.S. Congressman has violated his oath of office.

Would you give me the same information in writing as you gave me over the phone regarding the Headquarters City investigation of the Hathaway letter to [REDACTED]

SYNOPSIS:

The above-captioned "study" appearing in the November, 1970, issue of "The Atlantic" magazine, is taken from the author's book on former Attorney General Kennedy which is to be published next year, and appears to be an attempt on the part of the author to obtain some advance publicity. Allegedly, Navasky, who is described as one of the founders of "Monocle," a satirical publication, has spent six years of "analysis and detective work" to reconstruct the facts surrounding the Government's tapping Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s, telephone, but a review of this article quickly reveals that it is merely a rehash of prior arguments put forth by critics of the FBI as to whether the Bureau had received authority from the then Attorney General, Kennedy, to install a technical surveillance on King. The author breaks his study down into what he refers to as the: (1) Kennedy version, (2) FBI version, (3) points at which the Kennedy version conflicts with the FBI version, and (4) the author's own version of what he feels actually happened. Considerable space is devoted to the Kennedy version in which the author constantly alludes to the sources of his information as "Kennedy aides," "Kennedyites," and "Kennedy intimates," without naming any specific individual, while limited coverage is extended to the author's FBI version.

Under the Kennedy version, the author attempts to show that Kennedy complied with our request for authorization to "tap" King's phone in October, 1963, because he didn't want the then current civil rights bill defeated, he wanted to protect Dr. King by proving to the FBI that he was not under communist influence, and lastly, to make the FBI "happy." Navasky also points out that information on Dr. King's sex life did not arise from the wiretap Kennedy had authorized but rather from bugs installed "either by local police forces or on the FBI's own initiative without the specific authorization or knowledge of Attorney General Kennedy or anybody on his staff." The author limits the FBI's version of what actually transpired to an article by Jerry O'Leary of the "Washington Star," in which it was noted that Kennedy first proposed tapping King's phone in June, 1963, and that Mr. Hoover had a memorandum from Courtney Evans to prove it. Navasky also refers to our advising Kennedy in October, 1963, that it was now technically feasible to apply wiretap to King's telephone at the Southern Christian Leadership Conference Headquarters in Atlanta, and at an unnamed location in New York. At this point the author, in an obvious attempt to support his reputation as a satirical writer, notes that Mr. Hoover has a memo to "prove" this contact with Kennedy. The author immediately discounts the FBI's version by stating that it was attacked and discredited by individuals close to Kennedy and by Nicholas Katzenbach and Ramsey Clark.

Navasky only points out two situations where the Kennedy version conflicts with the FBI version, pointing out that Kennedyites advised that the tap was the Director's idea and was installed at his urging and they denied that Kennedy ever entertained doubts about King's loyalty. He weakly supports his argument here by again relying on information received from Katzenbach and Ramsey Clark. The shallowness of the author's own version is immediately pointed out by his admittance that his "inquiries have not been entirely satisfactory," blaming it on a lack of cooperation from the FBI and limited cooperation from people close to Kennedy. His lack of complete confidence in his work is further noted by his statement that "if there are any inaccuracies, it goes without saying that they were not intended." The author concludes these various versions with his own, noting that the real explanation of why Kennedy went along with the FBI in tapping King's phone was because there would have been no living with the Bureau if he didn't. He contends that Kennedy authorized the tap, not only to avoid the then present problem of "living with the Bureau," such as having to face no cooperation, harassment from congressmen, columnists, and other friends of the FBI but to protect the Kennedy Administration's reputation if they failed to tap King's phone and Mr. Hoover, at some distant date, used it against them.

In my memorandum to you dated 3/22/68, it was reported that Navasky had written to former Assistant to the Director DeLoach advising that he was writing a book on the Department of Justice under Attorney General Robert Kennedy, and noted that while his would would not be an "authorized" account, he hoped that Mr. DeLoach would afford him an interview in order to have the benefit of Mr. DeLoach's impressions and observations concerning our relationship with Mr. Kennedy during his tenure. Since it was felt that this book would be designed to extoll the accomplishments of Kennedy and possibly antagonistic toward the FBI, it was recommended and approved that Mr. DeLoach decline to be interviewed.

In a subsequent letter to Mr. DeLoach, again requesting an interview, which was also declined, Navasky noted that he would be less than honest if he did not concede that as a result of his Yale Law School training and his past membership in the American Civil Liberties Union, he would approach his study with certain predispositions about some of the FBI's activities.

Our files reveal that "Monocle" is a magazine of political satire which carried a severe satirical attack against the Central Intelligence Agency in its Winter 1963-64 issue.

(DETAILS - OVER)

Memorandum to Mr. Bishop
Re: "The Government and Martin Luther King"
by Victor S. Navasky

DETAILS

The November, 1970, issue of "The Atlantic" magazine carries the above-captioned article by Victor S. Navasky, who is described as one of the founders of the occasional satirical publication, "Monocle."

Allegedly, this article was taken from the author's forthcoming book (name unknown) on former Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, which is to be published sometime next year. It appears that this may be one of the means the author is using to obtain some advance publicity for this book.

Although it is pointed out that the author spent six years of "analysis and detective work" to reconstruct the facts surrounding the "tapping" of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr.'s, telephone, a review of the article quickly reveals that it is merely a rehash of prior arguments put forth by critics of the FBI as to whether the Bureau had received authority from the then Attorney General, Robert F. Kennedy, to install a technical surveillance on King, and if so, how was King's close friend (Kennedy) forced into doing such a thing.

The author attempts to develop his theme by noting what he refers to as the:(1) Kennedy version, (2) FBI version, (3) points at which the Kennedy version conflicts with the FBI version, and (4) the author's own version of what he feels actually happened. Although considerable space is devoted to explaining the Kennedy version, in which the author constantly alludes to information he has received from "Kennedy aides," "Kennedyites," and "Kennedy intimates," without naming any specific individual or source, limited coverage is extended to the author's FBI version.

KENNEDY VERSION:

In this section, the author explains that according to "Kennedy intimates," Attorney General Kennedy complied with the FBI's request for authorization to "tap" King's phone in October, 1963, because:(a) the civil rights bill was coming up and if Dr. King were in any way tainted with communist connections, it would be used to defeat this bill; (b) to protect Dr. King by proving to the FBI that he was not being influenced by communist agents; and (c) to make the FBI, which had been wanting to tap Dr. King since 1961, "happy."

by Victor S. Navasky

At this point the author also notes that the rumors about Dr. King's active extracurricular sex life did not arise from the wiretap which Kennedy had authorized but rather from bugs installed "either by local police forces or on the FBI's own initiative without the specific authorization or knowledge of Attorney General Kennedy or anybody on his staff."

FBI VERSION:

In explaining the FBI's version, Navasky refers to the article by Jerry O'Leary of the "Washington Star," in which it was noted that Attorney General Kennedy first proposed tapping Dr. King's phone in June of 1963, and the fact that the Director had a memorandum from Courtney Evans (C. P. Evans to Mr. Belmont memo dated 7/16/63, captioned "Communist Influence In Racial Matters), described as the FBI's liaison to the Attorney General, to prove it. The author also refers to our reporting to Kennedy on 10/7/63, that it was now technically feasible to apply wiretaps to King's telephone at the Southern Christian Leadership Conference Headquarters in Atlanta, and at an unnamed location in New York. In a satirical vein, the author notes that Mr. Hoover has a memo to "prove" the FBI's request to proceed with the tap "proposed" by Kennedy four months earlier (Memorandum from the Director to the Attorney General dated 10/7/63, captioned "Martin Luther King, Jr., and Communist Influence In Racial Matters). Navasky notes that the FBI's version was, of course, attacked and discredited by individuals close to Kennedy as well as by Nicholas Katzenbach and Ramsey Clark.

KENNEDY VERSION CONFLICTS WITH FBI VERSION:

The author takes great pains to point out that the Kennedy version conflicts with the FBI version in two essentials: (1) Kennedyites say the tap was Hoover's idea and installed at his urging; and (2) they deny that Kennedy ever entertained doubts about Dr. King's loyalty. Here again the author relies on information received from Katzenbach and Ramsey Clark to support the Kennedy version.

AUTHOR'S VERSION:

The shallowness of the author's contention is immediately pointed out by his admittance that his own "inquiries have not been entirely satisfactory,"

Memorandum to Mr. Bishop
by Victor S. Navasky

because of lack of cooperation from the FBI and limited cooperation from people close to Kennedy. He further notes a lack of complete confidence in his reconstruction by noting that "if there are any inaccuracies, it goes without saying that they were not intended."

In his version of what he feels actually transpired, the author notes that one can accept the Kennedy version with slight variations and goes on to discredit his interpretation of the FBI's version. He concludes by noting that the real explanation of why Kennedy went along with the FBI in tapping King's phone was the same reason given by some Justice Department alumni: "Because there would have been no living with the Bureau if he didn't." The author maintains that Kennedy authorized the tap not merely to avoid the then present problems of "living with the Bureau," such as having to face non-cooperation, risking an FBI torpedo aimed at the civil rights bill, inviting harassment from congressmen, columnists, and other legions of constituents who respond to Mr. Hoover's distress signals, but to protect the Kennedy Administration's reputation if they failed to tap King's phone and Mr. Hoover, at some distant date, used it against them.

Navasky, 27 Washington Square North, New York, New York, Request To Interview Assistant to the Director DeLoach," it was noted that Navasky had written to former Assistant to the Director DeLoach advising that he is writing a book on the Department of Justice under Attorney General Robert Kennedy, and noted that while his work will not be an "authorized" account, he hoped that Mr. DeLoach

by Victor S. Navasky

would afford him an interview in order to have the benefit of Mr. DeLoach's impressions and observations concerning the FBI's relationship with Mr. Kennedy during his tenure as Attorney General. Since it was felt that there was a good chance that Navasky's book would be a fast-commission book designed to extoll the accomplishments of Kennedy and possibly antagonistic toward the FBI, it was recommended and approved that Mr. DeLoach decline to be interviewed by Mr. Navasky.

In a subsequent letter to Mr. DeLoach, again requesting an opportunity to interview him, which request was denied, Navasky noted that he would be less than honest if he did not concede that as a result of his Yale Law School training and his past membership in the American Civil Liberties Union, he would approach his study with certain predispositions about some of the FBI's activities.

"MONOCLE" MAGAZINE:

Our files reveal that this is a magazine of political satire, which, in its Winter 1963-64 issue, carried a severe satirical attack against the Central Intelligence Agency.
